THE PROPERTY

North Shottersley is an attractive and substantial attached Edwardian property that was split from the main adjoining house in 1955. At the same time, a single storey wing was added which incorporates a wonderful dining room with a vaulted ceiling and fireplace and adjoining kitchen/breakfast. Subject to the necessary permissions, these could be combined to create a large open plan kitchen/dining/family room overlooking both the front and rear gardens.

The property requires a certain amount of modernisation and improvement but also enjoys a quiet and secluded position, set well back from Farnham Lane at the end of its sweeping tree lined driveway. Elsewhere on the ground floor are the sitting room with a rear garden aspect and open fireplace, office, ground floor bathroom, utility room and bed 5/snug.

The first floor has its own character and charm, centred around the beamed landing with built in book shelves and stairs leading to the stunning galleried open plan attic space. Here there are exposed ceiling beams, gable and dormer windows and would be a lovely quiet space to read or study. The four 1st floor bedrooms also have their own individual features and built in wardrobes, with the main bedroom having an en suite shower room.

THE GROUNDS

The property is located at the end of its sweeping curved tree lined driveway which culminates in a parking area and leads to 2 separate detached garages one of which has a lean-to greenhouse. The house is positioned centrally within its plot of just under 0.6 acres with gardens to the front, side and rear. The front garden is mainly light woodland, to the rear are paved terraces, pathways, split level lawns and established screening boundaries.

SITUATION

Haslemere is situated on the border of Surrey, Sussex and Hampshire and is well positioned for access to London via the A3 or by rail from the mainline station in Haslemere with a fast and frequent service into London Waterloo in under one hour. The town is surrounded by many acres of countryside, much of it is National Trust owned including Hindhead Common which is less than half a mile away. Here there are miles of scenic walks with some spectacular views toward central London along with the North and South Downs and the Devil's Punchbowl which also has a café. There are numerous golf courses in the area and a good selection of highly regarded state and private schools. Haslemere town centre offers a comprehensive range of shops, boutiques, hotels, restaurants, public houses and coffee bars. In West Street there are small independent shops such as a bakers, butchers and ironmongers alongside a Waitrose supermarket.
